Make the Most of your Free Time

- 1) In many free time activities, we take the role of consumer. When we watch TV, play video games or read, we are passive. Take on the role of producer for a change. Build a model, write a blog or make an animation film. You will use a different part of your brains and will feel more energised as a result.
 - 2) But don't worry too much about your free time activities. Don't do things only to impress your friends. Free time isn't about that. It is about doing an activity because you like doing it, so don't let outside pressures influence your choice.
 - 3) Take the opportunity to make new friends. Everyone has different interests, so don't expect your mates to be into the same things you are. Give them a break for a while, join a club and get to know some other people with the same interests as you. You can never have too many friends!
 - 4) You'll really know you're using your time wisely if what you're doing helps other people. So find out what's going on in the community and lend a hand. Visit the elderly or help out in a children's club. If socialising's not your thing, why not volunteer for a wildlife organisation?
 - 5) Once you're relaxed and energised, you can think about what you'd like to improve in your life. Want to get fit? Learn a skill? Improve your job prospects? There are plenty of groups, clubs and classes you can join that will set you on a completely new life path. So what are you waiting for? Get out there and enjoy yourself!
- a) Make a difference
 - b) Change your life
 - c) Get creative
 - d) Meet likeminded people
 - e) Do what you want

Shoplifting

Shoplifting is the act of taking an item from a store without paying for it. Usually, the item is hidden in a customers' clothing or in a bag while they attempt to exit the shop. However, shoplifting can also include attempts to get a refund from a stolen item. It can also mean trying to switch the price tag on an item to get a lower price.

Although these incidents may seem rare, about $35 million dollars' worth of goods are shoplifted every day around the world. Studies have shown that all shoplifting is done equally by both genders and by all races. They report that shoplifters also target all types of stores, from small convenience stores to big chain retailers. Rich people tend to shoplift only slightly less than poor people. An average shoplifter starts stealing when they are about ten years old and tend to be most active in their teens. Most shoplifters don't set out to commit theft before they go to a store. They shoplift on impulse when they are in a shop. Many shoplifters say that the feeling of successfully stealing an item is like a drug "high" which makes them very excited.

Since shoplifting has become such a big problem in stores around the world, retailers have taken measures to try and stop it. Many stores now have video cameras that watch for suspicious activity. Security tags called "electronic article surveillance" are attached to many items to alert store staff when people attempt to leave the shop with something before paying for it. Store detectives disguised as shoppers also patrol many stores. They pretend to browse through the shop while keeping an eye out for shoplifters.
